AN ANTHOLOGY OF TRADITIONAL AUSTRALIAN SONGS
ARRANGED FOR CHOIR
by SANDRA MILLIKEN

FOREWORD

This collection of folksong arrangements is part of the Queensland Kodály Choir Legacy Project. The purpose of this project is to foster choral singing, not only in Australia, but also, in broader terms, to support singing around the globe. The choir has engaged outstanding musician-composers to develop choral material which is accessible, but musically interesting; easily sung without being trite; and with text that expresses something of the spirit of the people. Indeed, it is intended that these songs capture and express the industry and aspiration of many people across a range of contexts.

It is important to recognise that the folksongs in this collection originated in, or were brought to Australia, during the colonial period, and that, as a nation, we now understand that this was a period of appropriation, domination and genocide.

We say sorry to Australia's First Peoples and acknowledge that much harm was done during this time.

However, it is equally important to recognise that European settlement in Australia was initially established as a means of dealing with burgeoning numbers of British convicts. Irish nationals, in particular, were over-represented in the processes of incarceration and transport, with the loss of homeland and belonging still resonating through the archive. While many never survived the brutal conditions, the few who were pardoned were cast into a world that provided little real freedom or self-determination. The spirit of rebellion remained evident in many of the songs and it seems that life for the majority of early European Australians was characterised by hardship, oppression and adversity. The unforgiving environment, unpredictable climate, lack of infrastructure and isolation meant that those who sought to sustain themselves on the land battled to survive. Australia's remoteness was no guarantee of protection from global geo-political forces and indeed, stirrings in Britain and Europe all had significant impacts in the new world.

The hardship of life in a new colony is writ large in this collection, and themes of struggle, loss, oppression and rebellion appear repeatedly. The universality of the human condition is foregrounded here and the songs serve to remind us of the inevitability of challenge in our lives, both past and present. It is the understanding of the shared human experience which underscores the value of these songs, not as a celebration of great global power, but as a call for solidarity with all who suffer injustice, marginalisation and a lack of respect. Indeed, such songs are less an endorsement of the past, but rather serve more powerfully as a signpost towards a more enlightened and fulfilling future for all.

Most of the titles in the Anthology are presented in two or more arrangements, across a variety of different voicings. This has been done with the express purpose of making the songs accessible to choirs of varying ages, abilities and vocal mixes. Available in a two-part Anthology and also as individual titles, each of the arrangements is supplemented by performance notes, a glossary of terms, and rehearsal tracks.

I welcome the publication of these arrangements and resources, and it is my earnest hope that they will be further welcomed by choral directors and singers across this country, and even beyond – indeed by all those who value the art of choral music and who believe that the past holds valuable messages for us here in the present and into the future.

PERFORMANCE NOTES

MORETON BAY

The penal settlement of Moreton Bay was established in 1824 and continued to operate until 1842 on the site of present-day Brisbane. Along with several other penal stations in eastern Australia, it had been established to house recalcitrant (worst of the worst) prisoners.

From 1826 to 1830 the settlement was under the command of Captain Patrick Logan. Hated by the convicts for his harsh treatment, he was a relentless flogger and was widely regarded as a tyrant.

The lyrics of the song are attributed to Francis MacNamara. Convicted of stealing some cloth in his native Ireland, he had been sentenced to transportation to Australia for seven years. He landed in Australia in 1832 and quickly established himself as a talented writer who produced several songs and poems critical of the treatment of convicts by the authorities. The song is based on Frankie's own experiences as a convict and describes the cruelty of the penal stations in Australia in the middle of the 19th Century.

Captain Logan was speared to death on October 17, 1830.

SATB

There are several solo opportunities in this arrangement.

Solo 1 at Bar 4 can be any voice type or it may be sung by the whole Soprano section.

Solo 2 at Bar 13 is suitable for either Baritone or Tenor.

The Solos from Bar 62 to 70 are for Baritone or Tenor (melody) and Solo Alto (harmony).

This accompanied arrangement contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 54 to Bar 61, where the optional piano accompaniment can be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

In performance, pay particular attention to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

SSA

There are three solo opportunities in this version: at Bar 4, Bar 13 and Bar 71.

This accompanied arrangement contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 54 to Bar 61, where the optional piano accompaniment can be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

In performance, pay particular attention to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

TTB

There are three solo opportunities in this version: at Bar 4, Bar 13 and Bar 71.

This accompanied arrangement contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 54 to Bar 61, where the optional piano accompaniment can be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

In performance, pay particular attention to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

MY NAME IS BEN HALL

This song was published in Old Bush Songs; Composed and Sung in the Bushranging, Digging and Overlanding Days, edited by Banjo Paterson. It tells the story of Ben Hall, one of Australia's best-known bushrangers.

Ben was born in May 1837 at Maitland, in the Hunter Valley of New South Wales, the son of English and Irish parents who had both been convicted of minor offences and transported to Australia. They had married in 1834 and found work in the Murrurundi area. By 1842 Benjamin senior had bought a small block of land in Murrurundi where he set up a butcher shop and also sold fresh vegetables.

Young Ben spent his early years working with horses and cattle, developing his expertise in stockwork and bushcraft. These skills would later serve him well. In 1856, at age 19, he married Bridget Walsh, but during the summer of 1861-62, Bidy left, with their young son Henry, to live with a young stockman named James Taylor. From this time, Ben's life entered a downward spiral as he began an association with the notorious bushranger Frank Gardiner.

It was perhaps on this account that the police arrested Hall on a trumped-up charge and, while he was in gaol, the authorities burnt down his homestead and left his cattle to starve. In anger and despair, Hall turned to bushranging and, for some three years, he and his gang terrorised the district between Bathurst and Forbes. But by early 1865, Hall and the others realised that to survive they would have to leave New South Wales. They first retreated to an isolated area northwest of Forbes, intending to gather fresh horses and provisions for a long journey north towards Queensland. But early in the morning of 5 May 1865, the police came upon Ben Hall alone and asleep by the banks of the Goobang Creek. The outlaw was shot to death.

SAB

Use stagger breathing for the long, sustained humming notes.

From Bars 1 to 9, the opening melody may be sung by a Baritone solo.

The piece may also be accompanied by guitar for pitch support.

In performance, pay particular attention to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

MY SON TED

This song is often called Mrs McGrath; Ted is also known as Tim and John; and there are many variants of the lyrics and the tunes used. Whatever the case, it is a bitter song expressing a strong anti-war sentiment. It dates from the time of the Napoleonic Wars (1803-1815) between the French Empire and various European states, including England

During that time thousands of young Irishmen were recruited to join the British army. For many, they were faced with the option of starving at home or becoming soldiers of fortune. The recruiting sergeant was a dreaded figure in those days, for if you accepted his shilling for a drink, you could be legally pressed into the army.

The song tells the story of a young Irishman who joined the British Army to fight in the Peninsular War (1804-1814) which was fought on the Iberian Peninsula pitting the forces of Spain, Portugal and Britain against the forces of Napoleon. Much to his mother's dismay, the young man returns home having lost both his legs to a cannon ball.

SATB

This accompanied arrangement contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 86 to Bar 94, where the optional piano accompaniment may be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

The piece may be accompanied by guitar.

In performance, pay particular attention to tempi changes, articulation and dynamics as well as the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

ON THE BANKS OF THE REEDY LAGOON

The words to this song were based on a poem written by Jimmy Connors, described as a prolific contributor of newspaper verses, and published in the Queensland Times on 14 September 1893. It may have been inspired by the ill-fated Shearers Strike of 1891. Jimmy had been living in Redbank Plains at the time of writing the poem and, sadly, died a year or two before it was printed.

SATB

This arrangement is scored for piano and harmonica, but a violin or flute can be substituted if necessary.

There are three solo opportunities: at Bar 72 for Bass/Tenor, Bar 76 for Soprano/Alto and Bar 88 for Bass.

The score also contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 136 to the end, where the optional piano accompaniment can be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

The piece may be accompanied by guitar.

In performance, pay particular attention to tempi changes, articulation and dynamics as well as the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

SSA and 2-PART

This arrangement is scored for piano and harmonica, but a violin or flute can be substituted if necessary.

There are three solo opportunities: at Bar 72 for Alto, Bar 76 for Soprano and Bar 88 for Alto.

The score also contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 136 to the end, where the optional piano accompaniment can be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

The piece may be accompanied by guitar.

In performance, pay particular attention to tempi changes, articulation and dynamics as well as the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

THE QUEENSLAND DROVER

Sometimes known as The Overlanders, this song reminds the listener of the well-known life of a Queensland Drover. The song has been in circulation in several versions with a number of different tunes since about the mid-1800s.

The song tells of the life and times of the drovers (overlanders) who made long and lonesome journeys across eastern Australia (from the Gulf of Carpentaria through to Bass Strait) driving large mobs of cattle to new grazing areas or from cattle stations to railheads that lead to markets. They were a tough breed of men, from many nations and from many walks of life, who were often regarded somewhat as social outcasts by the squatters and the townsfolk whose paths they crossed on their long journeys across the country.

The chorus is a toast to the overlanders.

SSATB

This arrangement is scored for violin, but a flute can be substituted if necessary.

In verse 5 (Bar 67), there is a solo opportunity for Bass or Tenor; however, this could be acted out for the last phrase by shouting the words instead of singing.

The score also contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 75 to Bar 83, where the optional piano accompaniment can be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

The piece may be accompanied by guitar.

In performance, pay particular attention to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

SSA and 2-PART

This arrangement is scored for violin, but a flute can be substituted if necessary.

In verse 2 (Bar 23) there is an optional solo for treble voice.

At verse 5 (Bar 67), there is another optional solo and an opportunity for acting out the last phrase by shouting the words instead of singing them.

The score also contains an "a cappella" section from Bar 75 to Bar 83, where the optional piano accompaniment can be used, at the discretion of the conductor.

The piece may be accompanied by guitar.

In performance, pay particular attention to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

SHORES OF BOTANY BAY

Shores of Botany Bay is a traditional Irish song that has become a classic Australian folk song, with its catchy lyrics and 'ear worm' tune. The story is told by a bricklayer, Pat, who decides to emigrate from Ireland to Australia after hearing rumours of the Australian gold rushes. He has had enough of his job laying bricks and mortar on the docks, with its long hours and poor treatment by his bosses.

ALL ARRANGEMENTS

This arrangement is scored for flute, but a violin can be substituted if necessary.

The piece may also be accompanied by guitar, bush bass, lagerphone (monkey stick) and drum.

In performance, pay particular attention to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

THE SPRINGTIME IT BRINGS ON THE SHEARING

One of the best known of all Australian folk songs, this song appears to have been based on a poem The Wallaby Track by E J Overbury, published in the Creswick and Clunes Advertiser in 1865. It is a gentle, matter-of-fact sort of song; painting a contented picture, which verges on the romantic image of bush life.

SSAA

This “a cappella” arrangement may also be accompanied by guitar.

In performance, pay particular attention to the tempi changes as well as the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

2 PART

This accompanied arrangement may also be accompanied by guitar.

In performance, pay particular attention to the tempi changes as well as the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

WITH MY SWAG ALL ON MY SHOULDER

This is one of the best-known of Australian folk songs. The first documented version of the song was published in 1924, when Banjo Paterson included it in his Old Bush Songs. But it is almost certain that the song was around long before Paterson published it.

Its popularity is probably due, in large part, to the version performed and recorded by Australian group The Seekers. It was released in 1964 on their self-titled album The Seekers.

The song talks about the news reaching England and Ireland of the 1850s gold strikes in Australia. Stories of lumps of gold lying about, painted an enticing picture for people “back home” in the UK. Soon, hundreds of ships swarming with fortune seekers set out for Australia. Some of the emigrants struck it lucky – most did not and had to find other means to survive. Many spent their time wandering around the country-side hunting, gathering, begging, and stealing. Showing up at a squatter’s station could result in a generous handout, especially if the swaggies (as they were called) stayed around for a time to help repair fences, shear sheep, or muster cattle.

SAB and SA/2-PART

This arrangement is scored for violin, but a flute can be substituted if necessary.

The piece may also be accompanied by guitar, bush bass, lagerphone (monkey stick) and drum.

There is a solo opportunity at Verse 5 Bar 103. Feel free to have other voices join the solo wherever appropriate.

In performance, pay particular attention to the tempi changes as well as to the enunciation and expressive use of consonants in order to best convey the story.

MEET THE ARRANGER

SANDRA MILLIKEN (b. 1961) is a highly acclaimed conductor, composer and arranger of choral music, based in Brisbane, Australia. A music and education graduate of the University of New England, she also holds a Masters degree in choral conducting from the University of Queensland.

In 2001 Sandra was awarded a Churchill Fellowship that enabled her to further her studies in choral conducting and vocal/choral pedagogy. During this time she had the opportunity to observe, and work with, many international choral music specialists in England, Sweden, Finland, the United States and Canada.

Sandra has had a long involvement with choral music. From 1995 to 2008, she was on the staff of Queensland Youth Choir, conducting several of their ensembles, and in 2006 was appointed the QYC Artistic Director. In 2007 she took up the position of Conductor of the much-awarded Blackstone-Ipswich Cambrian Choir where she remained until 2016. From late 2015 until early 2018 she was Music Director of the highly-acclaimed Sunshine Coast Oriana Choir. She is currently the Music Director of the Bayside Divas.

Sandra has achieved international recognition as an Australian composer specialising in choral music. Her compositions demonstrate a strong Australian influence that reflects her interests in indigenous languages, eclectic influences and texts by contemporary Australian writers. Her works have been performed by choirs in Europe, the United Kingdom, North America, south-east Asia, China, Japan, New Zealand and Australia.

Sandra has her own choral music series – Choral Vivace – published by Edition Peters London. She also has a collection of mainly a cappella works in English, Finnish and Latin that is published by the Finnish company Sulasol.

Sandra has an avid interest in, and commitment to, promoting Australian choral music through her choral workshops and international invitations. As an adjudicator and music educator, Sandra has travelled extensively within Australia and internationally to Singapore, China, Hong Kong, Canada, the United States, England, Belgium and Finland.
